About the 2023 Review

The Boundary Commission for England is an independent and impartial non-departmental public body which is responsible for reviewing Parliamentary constituency boundaries in England.

We are currently conducting a review on the basis of legal rules most recently updated by Parliament in 2020, which will conclude with a final report and recommendations from us by 1 July 2023. The rules require there to still be 650 constituencies across the UK, but more equally distributed across the four parts of the UK, which will see the number of constituencies in England increase to 543. Each (apart from five 'protected' constituencies) must also contain a number of electors that is no smaller than 69,724 and no larger than 77,062 (as at the fixed date of 2 March 2020).

Revised proposals

This booklet contains maps that show our Revised proposals for the new Parliamentary constituency boundaries in the South East Region. They should be considered alongside our report, Revised proposals for new constituency boundaries in the South East region, which is published separately and also available on our website. We want to know your views on whether these proposals are right for your area.

About this booklet

This booklet contains a detailed map for each proposed constituency in the South East Region, showing its name and the proposed boundaries. Constituencies that we have revised since we published our initial proposals are shown with blue boundaries; those that we have not revised are shown with red boundaries. Similarly, revised constituency names are shown in blue text, while names we have not revised are shown in black.

How to have your say

We are consulting on our revised proposals for a four-week period, from 8 November to 5 December 2022. We encourage everyone to use this final opportunity to contribute to the design of the new constituencies – the more views we hear, the more informed our decisions will be when we make our final recommendations and report to Parliament.

Our consultation portal at www.bcereviews.org.uk has more information about our revised proposals and how to give us your views. You can also follow us on Twitter @BCEReviews or at facebook.com/BCEReviews.
