2. Directorships of companies

Conflicts of Interest

Relevant interests and conflicts of interest

7. The register of Assistant Commissioners' interests will contain information on financial and other interests. The need to declare a potential conflict of interest will go wider than the declarations required for the register. In particular, it may include interests through family connections, personal friendships and business associations, including debtor/creditor relationships.
8. A conflict of interest may arise in a variety of circumstances spanning the work of the Commission and may include decisions on:
 - land or property transactions with the Commission;
 - supply of goods or services to the Commission (including consultancy, furniture, IT equipment etc); or
 - supply of goods or services to local authorities subject to review by the Commission.
